While these workshops are in a series and build upon each other, please feel free to join us for 1, 2 or all 3 workshops!

Kerri Isham is a knowledgeable, collaborative and inclusive educator with over 25 years of experience. She is the founder & lead educator of Power Up Education.

Over 70% of child sexual abuse is committed by peers, with schools being the most common setting for these incidents. Despite fears, most youth who engage in harmful sexual behavior do not reoffend or grow up to abuse others.

This workshop is designed for anyone who works with or cares for children and youth - Foster Caregivers, Out of Care / Kinship Caregivers, Contracted Agency Caregivers, Social Workers, and Community Professionals. It covers the prevalence and causes of peer-to-peer sexual harm, how to use appropriate language, how to recognize healthy versus concerning sexual behavior, and factors like age of onset, risk factors, and high-risk locations. It also explores why children often don't disclose abuse, the barriers to seeking help, and provides practical tools and resources.

Can't make the date and time?
This workshop will be recorded and available for 30 days only.
